This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

THE Trustees of the New York State Library have deemed it proper, in view of the acknowledged utility of the Subject-Index Catalogue which they published in 1872, and because it appeared to be sufficient to respond to the necessities of the large majority of the readers in the Library, to publish a Supplement to it. The present volume, therefore, as the First Supplement to the Subject-Index of 1872, will be found to contain an abbreviated catalogue of the books and pamphlets added to the Library during the last ten years, arranged under an alphabetical dictionary of subjects. It also contains, in addition, all such references, as could conveniently be given consistently with the opportunities of the small working force in the Library to aid in the work, to books previously in the Library which treated of subjects not indicated upon their title pages, and which were frequently more full or more important to be referred to than books which named the subject on their titles. The amount of the extension given to this new volume in carrying out this principle will be readily seen in considering the fact that while the Subject-Index of the Library printed in 1872, and covering all the books in the Library received up to that date during a period of fifty years, filled only a volume of six hundred and fifty pages, this Supplement, covering only ten years, or a fifth of that period, is made to fill a volume of four hundred pages. This shows that if the same degree of analysis and classification could have been applied to the contents of the Library as it was in 1872, that Subject-Index would have made a volume of two thousand pages.

The justification, for the application of this extra amount of labor to enlarge so far as possible the number of references to subjects treated of in books, is found in the universal feeling among educated men that everything which can be done to save labor and long searches, in discovering the place where any information sought for is buried, is of the greatest importance to the student. It has been the intention to act still further in the line with this principle by introducing into this catalogue, under the head of Index Volumes in the Alphabet of Subjects, a list of all the volumes in the Library which were discovered at the time to be devoted principally to references to subjects and topics, and names of persons treated of in the works to which they belonged. Without doubt some index volumes in the Library did not occur to our minds, and have been omitted in the list; yet the number of such Subject-Index volumes so enumerated is found to be over one hundred and forty.

The same general plan has been pursued in preparing this volume as in preparing the previous one, and with more success in carrying out the purpose with regard to each book entered in it, that this catalogue should contain at least four facts with regard to each book mentioned, its subject, its author's name, a portion of the title, and date of publication. Not unfrequently it mentions also the place of publication, the size and number of volumes.

During the last two years the Librarian has been greatly assisted in the preparation of this catalogue by Mr. George R. Howell, and especially by Mr. F. Olcott, who has devoted a large part of his time to the work. As the Librarian and a single assistant for the greater part of the ten years, and a second assistant for the last two years, have constituted the whole working force of the Library for all purposes, bibliographical minuteness has necessarily and regretfully been neglected. But much has been done by them in developing and rendering more full many topics in behalf of the general student, as will be discovered by those interested in the use of the catalogue without any further allusion.

The number of volumes in the State Library in 1872 was 86,000; at present it is 118,000 volumes, of which 34,000 are in the Law department of the Library, which contains besides legal publications, all state, legislative and parliamentary documents.

A list of abbreviations used in the Subject-Index in referring to periodicals, society publications, etc., follows the preface; and a synopsis under a general classification of the principal topics, adopted for headings in both catalogues, will be found in the volume for 1872.

The very frequent abbreviations, like "U. S." for United States, "Gr. Br." for Great Britain, "Conv." for Convention, etc., it is believed, will be usually understood from the connection in which they occur. The figures at the end of titles are either the date of the edition or editions, or indicate the period embraced in the book. Sometimes both are given. The figures after "P." refer to the number of the volume in the Library collection of pamphlets, in which the publication may be found. Under many subjects cross-references are given to topics with other names, containing titles cognate to the one in which the reader is interested. Cross-references are also frequently made from topics under one name, to the name of the same general meaning adopted by the editor.
